Therfield Chapel Book Club

As I mentioned last Sunday evening, I am keen to start a chapel book club with the aim of helping people read four good Christian books per year. The plan is that each quarter we will meet together to discuss the latest book and see what we have learned from it. It will be useful if each person involved jots down notes as they read their book so that they can bring thoughts to discuss and questions to ask.

The first book I want to read is The Reason for God: Belief in and Age of Scepticism by Timothy Keller. Elizabeth Sewart can order you a copy or you can buy it from www.thebookdepository.co.uk for £10.96 (including postage). It is an excellent book that seeks to address numerous current objections that are levelled against the Christian Faith.

Please let me know if you want to be involved. I suggest that we have the first meeting on Wednesday 23rd July at 8pm to review Tim Keller's book. Please put this date in your diaries.
